2. OVERVIEW

Thrithi at the Faculty of Science and Technology (FST) was a dynamic and immersive experience, featuring a diverse lineup of events that engaged students across various interests. From high-energy esports competitions to creative showcases and brain-teasing mini-games, the festival brought the campus to life with excitement and enthusiasm.

With venues spread across classrooms, auditoriums, lawns, and common areas, FST was a hub of activity throughout the two-day event. The festival also had a theme-based dress code, with students donning casual wear on Day 1 and embracing traditional attire on Day 2, creating a vibrant and festive atmosphere across the campus.

One of the most visually striking elements of Thrithi at FST was the Nail Board at the entrance, where "Thrithi 2K25" was artistically spelled out with colorful strings, making for an iconic festival centerpiece.

The events at FST covered a broad spectrum, ranging from technical and gaming competitions to literary, artistic, and physical challenges. Here's a breakdown of the key attractions:

1. Technical and Logical Challenges

Technical competitions were a major highlight at Thrithi, attracting participants eager to test their problem-solving abilities.

Data Heist was one of the most successful events, featuring multiple challenges that kept participants engaged and on their toes as they navigated cybersecurity and data-related problem-solving scenarios.

Simon Says, an engaging logic-based game, challenged players to follow a sequence of actions while keeping their reflexes sharp.

Movie Pictionary combined creativity with quick thinking as participants guessed film titles based on drawn clues.

2. Gaming and Esports Tournaments

Esports continued to be one of the biggest crowd-pullers, with intense gaming sessions taking place throughout both days.

Mortal Kombat X and COD Tournament saw skilled players battle in high-stakes matches.

BGMI Tournament attracted competitive mobile gamers, creating an electrifying atmosphere in the gaming zone.

Cricket 19/Injustice added variety to the gaming events, ensuring diverse participation across different game genres.

3. Literary and Creative Engagements

FST also had a strong literary and artistic presence, providing space for students to explore their creative sides.

Spell Bee was a full-day event where participants tested their spelling prowess in competitive rounds.

Mad Gab, a fun linguistic challenge, had students decipher jumbled phrases in an intense yet entertaining format.

Words of Wonder was a light-hearted and engaging initiative where fortune cookie-style messages were distributed to students, adding a unique and thoughtful touch to the festival.

On the creative side, Thrithi showcased some truly inspiring artistic contributions:

The String Art installation at the entrance, featuring “Thrithi 2K25” in vibrant colors, was a standout attraction.

Canvas Arts encouraged students to contribute paintings and artwork, bringing an artistic flair to the event.

The Art Expo Competition provided a platform for students to display their creative masterpieces.

4. Interactive Photo Booths

Photo booths played a significant role in making Thrithi an interactive and visually memorable experience.

The Flower Photo-Booth and Confession Photo-Booth were major attractions, giving students fun opportunities to capture memories.

5. Mini-Games and Physical Activities

FST also hosted a series of mini-games that added a fun and competitive edge to the event.

The Lawn Area was dedicated to multiple engaging mini-games, ensuring continuous participation from students who wanted a quick and entertaining challenge.

The Triathlon, held under the Dome Area, was a combination of three mini-games that tested participants’ agility and quick thinking.

Additional Dome Area activities included Jenga and other small-scale interactive challenges, making it a hot spot for casual yet engaging participation.

The Tug of War, hosted on the lawn, drew large crowds as teams competed in a test of strength and strategy.

6. Mystery and Adventure-Based Events

For students who enjoyed immersive and problem-solving experiences, FST had several exciting challenges:

The Escape Room was a major attraction, challenging participants to solve a series of clues within a limited time to “break free.”

The Murder Mystery, hosted in the auditorium, had students taking on the roles of detectives as they worked through a thrilling crime-solving scenario.

7. Photo Scavenger Hunt

Adding an interactive campus-wide element to Thrithi, the Photo Scavenger Hunt encouraged participants to explore FST, capturing specific images based on a provided list. This event blended creativity with adventure, making it a fun and engaging challenge.

Audience Engagement and Participation

Thrithi at FST saw an impressive turnout, with students from various departments actively participating in events. Gaming and esports tournaments had some of the highest participation, while literary, artistic, and mini-game events kept the casual crowd entertained. The interactive booths, photo spots, and hands-on activities ensured that every attendee had something enjoyable to engage with, regardless of their interests.

With its wide range of events and energetic participation, Thrithi 2025 at FST successfully combined competition, creativity, and community spirit, making it an unforgettable experience for everyone involved.
